SUNY @ STONY BROOK

I am a research assistant at SUNY @ Stony Brook affiliated with the Medical Department at Brookhaven National Laboratory. I am currently pursuing my PhD in Molecular Genetics and am studying depression from a genetic perspective

I have been at the Lab for a few years and have been participating with ASAP on and off for about a year and a half now. I feel I would be instrumental in taking a hands on approach to assist ASAP in its efforts to continue its mission to bring about an atmosphere that is more conducive to the students and post-docs that visit BNL. ASAP is a great way to meet new people, network, and find out about various forms of entertainment available on the island.
