From the President
by Dave Cox, expatdave@aol.com

My best wishes to all for a happy and healthy New Year. And a special thank-you to Eena-Mai Franz, Ken Mohring and Louise Hanson for their many efforts on behalf of BREA during the last two years, and to our hard-working newsletter editor, Mona Rowe.

I would also like to welcome our new Treasurer, Steve Shapiro, and Membership Secretary, Carmen Benkovitz. We are fortunate that Ken and Louise will continue to serve on the Board as Vice-President and Secretary, respectively. My thanks also to the BREA members who took the trouble to return their election ballots – about 16% in all, which is a respectable figure for an uncontested slate of candidates.

Last October, retirees received news of major changes to the medical benefits plan, including the unwelcome news, (continued on page 3)
Occupational Illness Compensation

BREA members have been getting regular information through this newsletter and The Bulletin about federal evaluation and compensation programs for occupational illness. Here is information on the Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program, which provides lump-sum compensation and health benefits to eligible Department of Energy employees and former employees, contractors and subcontractors, and lump-sum compensation to certain survivors if the worker is deceased. When you apply, the Department of Labor will collect medical, employment, and other information from you and make a decision about whether or not you qualify for compensation and benefits.

Program Benefits
The Department of Labor has posted complete information online at http://www.dol.gov/owcp/energy/regs/compliance/progbenefits.htm. Below is abbreviated text from the website applicable to national labs like Brookhaven. To contact the Labor Department by phone, call toll-free 1-888-859-7211.

Part B
• Compensation of $150,000 and payment of medical expenses from the date a claim is filed is available to:
  o Employees of the Department of Energy (DOE), its contractors or subcontractors, and atomic weapons employers with radiation-induced cancer if:
    o the employee developed cancer after working at a covered facility of the Department of Energy, its contractors and subcontractors; and o the employee’s cancer is determined at least as likely as not related to that employment in accordance with guidelines issued by the Department of Health and Human Services
  • Employees of the Department of Energy, its contractors and subcontractors, and designated beryllium vendors who worked at covered facilities where they were exposed to beryllium produced or processed for the Department of Energy who developed Chronic Beryllium Disease

If the employee is no longer living, the compensation is payable to eligible survivors.

Part E
Compensation and payment of medical expenses is available to employees of DOE contractors and subcontractors, or their survivors, who develop an illness due to exposure to toxic substances at certain DOE facilities. Under Part E, a toxic substance is not limited to radiation but includes things such as chemicals, solvents, acids and metals.

Variable compensation up to $250,000 is determined based on wage loss, impairment, and survivorship. Medical expenses are not included in the $250,000 cap.

• Wage loss is based on the number of years that the employee was unable to work or sustained a reduction in earnings as a result of the illness. Wage loss compensation is payable for years of lost wages that are prior to regular Social Security Retirement age (usually age 65). Wage loss compensation is calculated at:
  o $10,000 for each year in which wages were 25-50% less than the Average Annual Wage (AAW). The AAW is the average earnings for the 12 quarters (36 months) prior to the first quarter of wage loss.
  o $15,000 for each year in which wages were less than 50% of the AAW • Impairment is a decrease in the functioning of a body part or organ as it affects the whole body, as a result of the illness. An impairment rating is performed once the claimant has reached Maximum Medical Improvement (i.e. the condition is stabilized and is unlikely to improve with additional medical treatment). Impairment compensation is calculated at:
  o $2500 for each one percent of whole body impairment
• Survivor benefits include compensation of at least $125,000.
  o If the employee sustained wage loss as a result of the covered illness, and that wage loss was prior to Social Security Retirement age (usually age 65), additional compensation may be awarded.

amongst other things, that those who were previously covered at no cost will now be required to pay part of their medical costs as a monthly premium. We are concerned that some older retirees will suffer significant hardship as a result of these changes, and we have received feedback from many members. We have met with HR officials on several occasions to discuss these concerns, as summarized in the article below.

Finally, I would like to remind everyone that the success of BREA depends very much upon your participation and involvement, so please share your concerns and suggestions with us, and consider coming to our monthly meetings, and attending other activities such as our occasional lunchtime lectures and tours of lab facilities. And be sure not to forget the annual luncheon, which is usually held in early June!

Changes to Medical Benefits

BREA’s November 2011 newsletter announced changes in retiree medical benefits for 2012, including the requirement that all retirees would need to pay monthly premiums ranging from 10-20% of costs. Many BREA members who retired in the ’80s and ’90s contacted BREA to complain that when they retired, they were provided with documents stating that “medical benefits would continue at no cost,” as was also stated in the benefits booklets issued to employees each year. In many cases, members who volunteered to take a retirement package offered at the time told us that one of the main incentives for their decision was the provision of continued benefits at no cost.

In response to our e-mail message in early November, some members sent supporting documentation, which we presented to the HR office, and we have now met with HR personnel on several occasions to pursue these issues. Replying to BREA members, Robert Lincoln, Chief Human Resources Officer, stated that he understood their concern, but emphasized that because of dramatically increasing costs for medical coverage, the Lab could no longer avoid passing along a portion of these costs to retirees. Lincoln said that since at least 1954, BNL has consistently reserved the right to amend its employee benefit plans in statements that appeared in various benefits booklets, which we have since verified for ourselves.

Nonetheless, any retiree is entitled to make a formal claim regarding benefits, including costs coverage, and may do so by filing such claim with the Plan Administrator. Please contact one of the BREA officers if you would like more information, or check the following link to the BREA website:

Finally, payments for medical premiums should be sent directly to P&A Group, not to BNL as in the past. For details, contact the Benefits Office at (631) 344-2877.
