Carl J. Klamut, who retired from BNL's Department of Applied Science on August 31, 1988, after 38 years at BNL, died on December 27, 2014. He was 88 years old.

The following obituary and photo were published on the website of Robertaccio Funeral Home, Inc. in Patchogue:

Obituary for Carl J. Klamut

Carl J. Klamut passed away surrounded by his family on December 27, 2014. Beloved husband of the late Nanette, loving father of Lori; Bob (Barri), Jim (Kathy), grandchildren Jessica, Kaitlynn and Colton and beloved companion Grace Searles. Carl worked at Brookhaven National Laboratory for 38 years as an engineer with a speciality in mettallurgy. He was an avid fisherman and woodworker.

Donations to Brookhaven Hospice 105 West main Street, Patchogue, NY 11772.

Carl Klamut was also an active member of the Lab community. Long into his retirement, he continued to volunteer to run the apparatus that tested high school students' submissions in BNL's annual Bridge Building Contest. And, in a review of mostly 1950-era editions of the Lab's early employee newspaper, The Bulletin Board, Carl appeared on the rosters of bowling and basketball teams, and perhaps others.
