FINAL REHEARSALS

On Thursday and Friday evenings of this week, the results of labors expended will be on view, as three happy but tired directors, Fran Keene, Marilyn Stafne, and Ken Jancier, watch the curtains rise. From this point, the actors and actresses are on their own. The audience can expect sincere performances. Everybody concerned has been diligent and enthusiastic. An audience has the right to expect the best performance of which the players are capable. Your BNL Theatre Group will deliver just that.

Speaking of audiences, will you be there? You will find it refreshing to get out of the rut - break a bowling, or bridge, or movie date for once - and come to the Theatre Thursday or Friday evening at 8:30. See and hear your performers in, if you'll pardon the expression, the flesh.

The Theatre Group deserves your support on the basis of past performances. Don't be among, those who, after hearing others describe it, have to say, "I wish I had seen it, but...". Make up your mind now to come for an enjoyable evening of worth while entertainment. You may have many neighbors, friends, or relatives who have not had the pleasure of seeing "live" performers for quite a spell. Invite them - bring them - make your Theatre Group aware of your approval by helping provide a large audience. The directors are ready - the scenery builders and stage managers are ready, the actors and actresses are ready. You, we hope, are ready too, to take in a big evening watching, "This Property is Condemned" - "Going Home" - and "Aria da Capo." See you there!
