THE HORSE'S MOUTH

Lecture Hall Monday, October 18
Admission 50 cents 8:30 p.m.

An enjoyable and thoroughly British comedy involving a Delphic oracle who has taken refuge in an Irish well and a charmingly ineffective London journalist vacationing in the area. For a lark (he's bored with predicting the weather and helping Mrs. Lanahan locate her misplaced specs) the oracle volunteers to help out the newsman with properly earth shaking scoops. Before too long the question is raised as to whether all this advance information on things to come is necessarily a good idea, but in the meantime the humorous possibilities of the situation are pleasantly explored and we are introduced to a number of delightful Irish types. Michael Medwin and pretty Virginia McKenna are starred.
