BOOKS ON BERA RENTAL LIBRARY SHELVES

"Murder for the Millions - edited by Frank Owens -

Described as a Harvest Horror and Homicide, this book contains more than 30 short stories that will delight the who-dun-it fans. Stories by such well known writers as Wilbur Daniel Steele, Mignon Eberhart, Damon Runyon, James M. Cain, Ellery Queen and others, contain many strange and gory methods of eliminating unwanted persons.

Chemists will enjoy Freeman Will Croft's story of a chemist who had planned the perfect crime but was trapped by a clue that developed from one of his own scientific instruments. The story of the old lady who was robbed of a valuable gem and murdered serves as further proof that it is next to impossible to plan a crime without leaving a clue.

Constant readers of mystery stories will probably find some in this book that they have read previously but most of them are worth reading again.

The advantage of short stories is that the reader need not stay up all night to find out how they end. Mystery stories are the hardest kind of tales to put aside before you find out whether the criminal gets his just deserts and "Murder for the Millions" fills the need for something to read when time is short.

Mrs. Hazel Williams wishes to extend her thanks to all of the staff members for the many kindnesses shown her at the time of her recent bereavement.

HURRY! HURRY! HURRY!

Gigantic Jingle Contest is still on. Have you submitted your entries? Remember Mrs. C _____ who won the Upton Road railroad bridge simply by guessing how many loose planks there were (her answer was 96-1/2). You too can win a prize just as handsome and worthwhile.

Details appeared in the Bulletin Board of Friday, May 13, 1949. Remember, you only have until June 1st.

Can YOU tie this one???

To impress a babe at a convention,

He told secrets one just shouldn't mention.

For his indiscreet come-ons

He now holds a summons
And is subject to ten years' detention.

MATERIALS CONTROL WINS SOFTBALL OPENER

Before a group of enthusiastic fans, estimated at 5, Materials Control softball team defeated the Nuclear Reactor team 7 to 5, last Wednesday, May 11, winning the first game of the 1949 tournament.

It was a close game in spite of the wintery blasts that blew across the diamond. Infield errors by the Nucs, that might have been due to the chilly atmosphere, allowed Materials Control to maintain their lead that they had gained when Johnson poled out a three-base hit, scoring Texeira and Iarocci.

The outstanding fielding play of the game was made by Borzi, pitcher for Materials Control. Atherton, batting for the Nucs, laid down a bunt in front of the plate, which Borzi rapidly fielded and his throw to first beat the runner.

The batteries were:

Materials Control -

P. Borzi, Pitcher

B. Keene, Catcher

Nuclear Reactor -

S. Garrett, Pitcher

Lee, Catcher

On Thursday evening, May 11, Machine Shops defeated Information-Publications-Photography 4 to 1.

Tuesday evening, May 17, Nuclear Reactor defeated Drafting-Fiscal-Purch. 26 to 4.
