SPRING PLAY IN FINAL STAGES

Preparations are well along for the presentation on May 24 and May 25 of the famous Moss Hart and George Kaufman 3-act comedy hit, "You Can't Take It with You."

The B.E.R.A. Players have been diligently laboring to do justice to this play, and it appears at this point to be well cast and well directed.

For the Lab folks who have not followed the B.E.R.A. Players closely in the past, it might be said that an evening of splendid entertainment is certain for anyone who comes. It is permitted to bring friends, or neighbors, who do not work on the Site. Tickets will be available this week at the pre-war price of fifty cents including tax.

A real play with living performers on stage has an appeal which should delight most of us who are content most of the year with the shadows and sounds of television and movies. There is an intangible exchange of feeling between a living audience and a living group of players which can greatly heighten the enjoyment of everyone on both sides of the footlights.

More announcements are due shortly with a listing of the cast. Watch for it and plan to attend -- and to extend to your friends outside the Lab the opportunity to enjoy a hilarious play, produced by a hardworking, sincere group -- who do not promise a "Broadway" performance but can and do promise to do their very best. May 24 and May 25 -- $.50 tax included. At this price you should get about 100 laughs for each penny invested.
