ALL MY SONS

The Theatre Group's Spring production, "All My Sons", is really on the road to a successful performance. I popped in on a rehearsal of said play the other night and, well, I was so impressed by the very professional smoothness of our Lab thespians in action that I slipped into the back row and was thoroughly entertained.

I watched intently as Act I breezed by. I noted that Fran Keene as the lovely Ann was just right for the part, and Leo Lutwak and Peggy Steinfield, in the dramatic roles of Mr. and Mrs. Keller filled their lines with feeling and wonderful expression. Matter of fact, the whole cast was terrific. I hear the set crew is doing a bang up job on the outdoor scenery.

Yes, things are really underway -- and with the tip-top direction of Jean Snover and Mary Jane Sears, I'm betting "All My Sons" will be an all-time Brookhaven sensation. Come see -- on May 22nd or 23rd.
