3 ONE ACT PLAYS

August 11 and 12 - 8:30 p.m.
Gymnasium

Somerset Maugham has done it --- why not the B.N.L. Theater Group? We refer, of course, to Mr. M's habit of stringing together a number of his shorter pieces to make up an evening's entertainment. Not wishing to steal Mr. Maugham's material, we have carefully refrained from giving our summer production the title "Trio", although, unfortunately, as a short, pungent, descriptive title, it is practically unbeatable. The last weeks have been extremely hectic, which is to say, perfectly normal for the theater group when it is in the throes of production. The summer has been hot and sticky, and most of us have tried to find some degree of comfort after work by going to the beach, or perhaps even an air-conditioned movie, but the call of the stage is strong, and a large number of people have willingly given up their creature comforts for about six weeks now to sweat it out in non-air-conditioned place to paint scenery, make props, rehearse and do all those things which go into the creation of a major production. We have worked hard, and we hope you'll enjoy the plays.

The list of self-sacrificing ones is long, since there are triple casts and crews. The casts include the following people: Helen Steffensen, Jerry Hudis (Chem) and Gerhart Friedlander (Chem) in "How He Lied to Her Husband"; Byron Keene (H.Phys.) Alice Salzman (Chem.), Sam Markowitz (Chem.) Chris Bothner-By (Bio), Richard Dougherty (Bio), Bob Stetson (Rea) in "Hello Out There"; Fran Keene, Don Miller (Chem) Ed Sayre, Keith Rowley and Bob Schutz, all from Chemistry, Noel Corngold and Jerry Lellouche from Nuclear Engineering, Bob Margulies and Norman Axelrod from Physics, Don Fluke (Bio.) and Hank Drexler (Med.) in "The Romancers". The directors are: Lulu Anderson (Bio) for the Saroyan, Jane Caspar for the Rostand and Lee Grodzins (Phys.) for the Shaw. The staffs, given in the same order are: stage managers, Norman Kohn (Bio), Lou Gidez (Med.) and Lynn Paige (Bio.); also for the purpose of keeping the directors from going mad we have Mary Jane Sears (Tech. Info), Ruth Schwarz, and Majorie Dreyfus as prompters. Set construction has been handled by Don Fluke, Sven Hasselriis (Phys), Lynn Paige and Lou Gidez, lights by Janet Geisselsoder (Bio) and Herbert Geisselsoder, props by Harold and Ruth Schwarz, make-up by Cynthia Corngold, costumes by Sybil Sugarman and Chris Bothner-By, with Mary Kinsley (Hot Lab) as wardrobe mistress, publicity by Chris Bothner-By, Marge Dreyfus, John Antal (Phys) Bernice Antal (Med) and Mary Jane Sears, ticket sales by Sylvia Springhorn and Arthur Kowalsky, both from Biology, house by John Antal, Bernice Antal and Lucy Duke (Med) and the program by George Cox (Photo) and Mary Jane Sears. Virginia Sayre (Dir.Off.) is looking forward to a quiet nervous breakdown after August 12, when, finally she will be relieved of the heavy mantle of responsibility that goes by the title of production manager.

We have now reached the point where all we can do is hope that the inevitable crises of actual performance will be minor ones, since there is very little time left to do anything else. The dress rehearsals will have come and gone by tonight, and on Thursday, August 11, the curtain will go up on the real thing, for the inspection, and, we hope approval of you, a stimulus for all this, a major reason for the existence of the Theater Group, the audience. Tickets may be purchased, at fifty cents, from departmental Theater Group representatives, the recreation office or at the theater before the performances.
