Scouter's Luncheon

The following announcement has been issued by those in charge of this year's Scout-week luncheon: On Wednesday, February 13, 1957, the Second Annual Scouter's Luncheon will be held in the Research Staff Lounge.

"Because of the interest in the Scout-week luncheon held last year, plans are under way for another such affair this year. The 115 men who attended last year are an indication of the large part that Scouting plays in the spare time activities of B.N.L. people.

So again all those interested in Scouting are invited to get together for an hour of fellowship, to hear a good speaker, and to enjoy a good meal. Charles Keenan will be the Toastmaster. Whether you work with Cubs, Scouts, or Explorers, or are the father of one; whether you are a camper-outer or a sit-around-the-table-planner; or whether you just 'used to be' a Scout; you will find plenty of kindred souls willing and eager to exchange problems with you. And if there should be any Den Mothers around, we're big enough to recognize that they are Scouters, too. The luncheon doesn't have to be a stag affair.

As was demonstrated last year, no one will be asked to donate any (more) time or money. Just come out and enjoy yourself."

FILM GROUP TO PRESENT ENGLISH FILM

Outcast of the Islands - Produced and directed by Carol Reed; based on the novel by Joseph Conrad; photographed in Ceylon. With Trevor Howard, Ralph Richardson, Wendy Hiller, Kerima, Robert Morley. (United Artists)

That Carol Reed is one of the finest contemporary British directors cannot be denied (Stars Look Down, Fallen Idol, Third Man, Odd Man Out, Trapeze, etc.), and Outcast of the Islands is one of his most artistic accomplishments. Different in many respects from his previous films, it is a character study of Conrad's Willems, a degraded, almost maniacal crook, magnificently portrayed by Trevor Howard. The story concerns Willems' struggles and associations with those around him: Captain Lingard, his "patron" (Ralph Richardson), a trader rival, Aymayer (Robert Morley), and a native girl, Kerima.

Lecture Hall Monday, February 4 8:30 P.M. Admission $5.00
