FRENCH FILM FEATURES FERNANDEL

On Wednesday, March 6, The Red Inn will be shown in the Lecture Hall at 8:30 P.M.

The plot is a macabre comedy of three gentle, inhuman monsters, who kill all the passers-by who stop at their inn on the lonely road to Vivarais. On a stormy winter's night, the Paris stagecoach breaks down and the unwary passengers are happy to take refuge at the inn. A monk (Fernandel) and his young novice, who are making their way to a monastery, join the others to escape the storm. During the evening the monk hears confession from the innkeeper's wife, and she nonchalantly reveals the terrible secret of the inn to his amazement. Frightened, Fernandel sets about to devise a way of getting the giddy Paris passengers to leave, without violating the confessional.

Directed by Claude Autant-Lara; adapted by Aurenche, Bost and Autant-Lara from an original scenario by Aurenche; music by Rene Cloerec with a singing commentary by Yves Montand. With Fernandel, Francoise Rosay, Marie Claire Olivia, Lud Germain, Carett.
