BNL COMES TO "LIFE"

The latest issue of LIFE Magazine, dated September 29, carries an illustrated feature article on BNL that will interest all employees. The author, Paul O'Neil, in frankly admitting his unfamiliarity with nuclear science, gives a visitor's-eye impression of the Laboratory and some of its personalities, in a refreshing, nonscientific style. This story will undoubtedly help in giving the public a better understanding of our program and of the people who work here, and it also presents BNL and the surrounding area as a pleasant, stimulating place in which to live and work.

BNL BOWLING LEAGUES

Wednesday - Maggios: Wednesday night saw the surprising Dirty Birds gain sole possession of first place by downing the strong Phoubar team 3-1 despite Red Gardenier's steady 533 series. The Designers and Chain Gang split 2-2 with the Chain Gang taking the last two games in the tenth frame which is no small feat as they had only two men of their five with established averages. The AD Techs advanced to a tie for third place with Fiscal when the Cosmo team again failed to show and forfeited 4 points to them. ED. SPERRY

Wednesday - PBC: S&M took the lead with L. Adamec's 533 and S. Palermo's 539 in a 3-game series. G. Tiller bowled a high game of 222 for Fiscal. L. Lento bowled a total of 536 in a 3-game series for the Polsecs. J. Webster bowled a high game of 203 and a 3-game series of 525 for Chemistry. W. BENEDICT

CONCERT GROUP PROGRAM FOR COMING SEASON PART 2

It seems that last week we left you on tenterhooks concerning the last three concerts of our series. If those of you who have been hanging by your eyelashes waiting for the rest of it will pluck your way down, we will continue. Last week, we first discussed the special concert for children to be given by JOHN LANGSTAFF, the baritone, on Saturday morning, November 8, available to all at 75 cents a person, and then went on with our five part series, mentioning the TRIO DI BOLZANO which will appear October 15 and the FEHER CHAMBER ENSEMBLE, composed of string quartet, oboe and clarinet, which will appear November 19. Now we will go on from there.

BEAUX - ARTS STRING QUARTET - February 5

Yes, we will have a string quartet this year, and one of the best. The Beaux Arts is an exciting and relatively new chamber group. After one of four concerts in New York last year, the TIMES said, "The Beaux - Arts presented a well-balanced, entertaining and excellently performed program. They played all three works so comprehensively that one's attention was always held as the music unfolded logically and movingly." Oh well, that is the NEW YORK TIMES.

RAMPAL & VEYRON-LACROIX - March 10

"That Jean-Pierre Rampal is, without doubt the best flutist now to be heard goes without discussion. He knows how to unite the most breath-taking virtuosity to musical qualities of the subtlest kind. As for Veyron-Lacroix, we are at a loss which to admire more - the technique of his playing or the sensitivity which guides him to vary his style in accordance with the work being performed." We did not make this up. It is taken from ARTS, a Paris publication. Of course, they may be slightly prejudiced in favor of their countrymen, but then again, it probably loses in translation.

SUZANNE BLOCH - April 15

It has been a long time since we have had a lutenist, singer to the lute, player of virginals, recorders at Brookhaven, so on the occasion of the 395th anniversary of Shakespeare's baptism (we will be a week early) we will present Suzanne Bloch in a program of Elizabethan music. Her informal commentary on the music and instruments she plays augments her expert performances, to which she brings rich gifts of expression and personality. Miss Bloch is the daughter of the composer Ernest Bloch.

We bring you these five concerts for a subscription price of $7.50 for adults and $2.50 for children. Admission to a single concert will cost $2.00. Your friends and neighbors may be interested in the series or any single concert. They will be most welcome. Performances begin at 8:30 p.m. and they are given at the Research Staff Lounge.

Tickets may be purchased from Dr. Alburger, G. Vineyard, E. Church, S. Shapiro, E. Courant, J. Hastings, L. Corliss, G. Collins, R. Wiswall, N. Corngold, C. Averbach, H. Schwarz, N. Elliott, and C. Hammond.
