BERA FILM SERIES THREE FABLES OF LOVE

Thursday, Aug. 6, 8:30 p.m., Lecture Hall

A frothy little meringue of a film with a pinch of Gallic salt and a good deal of Italian sweetening to make its worldly lessons delightful to chew and swallow. In his fables, La Fontaine, like Aesop, gave animals human characteristics to point out the absurdity of our unwisdom: Directors Rene Clair, Alessandro Blasetti, and Herve Bromberger, in adapting the fables, have settled the responsibility for man's foolishness right back where it belongs, on the all-too-fallible human beings.

In "The Hare and the Tortoise," the ravishing Monica Vitti demonstrates that the race for Rossano Brazzi's affections is not necessarily to the girl who drives her sportscar fastest or shows the most skin. In "The Fox and the Crow" a clever fellow plays upon the exaggerated self-esteem of a small-town district attorney (who has, by the way, an extraordinarily pretty wife) to exact a typically French form of revenge for his lost court case. Rene Clair gives a sly twist to the story of the "Two Pigeons" by supposing that a beautiful and sophisticated model (Leslie Caron) is accidentally cooped up for a long weekend with a shy neighbor (Charles Aznavour) who really wants to go fishing.

It's possible that no great moral lesson can be educed from "Three Fables of Love," but as a witty commentary on human foibles, whipped to a foam by clever direction and sugared with several wonderful stars in uncharacteristic roles, it makes a tempting "gateau."

FISHERMAN'S NIGHT

Are you a disciple of Izaak Walton - dedicated to the pursuit of trout - or are you a "jetty jockey" addicted to the beach and only happy when you're swinging an "idiot stick" in hopes of doing battle with a Blue or Striper. Perhaps your forte is trolling off shore for Tuna or Bill fish, or you may be just a "sinker bouncer" content to get your share of fluke or flounder, or are you just curious about what this fishing game is all about. Whatever your calling or inclination, your Fishing Contest Committee has arranged for an evening of armchair fishing that will cover your favorite phase of the game.

With the cooperation of the Rheingold Beer Company, there will be a "Fisherman's Night" on August 13. Movies of angling from Florida to Maine will be shown, and these action-packed films are a must for every fisherman. There is no admission charge, and all employees are invited. Refreshments unlimited will be furnished by Rheingold. Plan to be at the Recreation Building from 5:15 to 7:15 on Thursday, August 13. "Get to know what good is."

CHESS PROBLEM

This week's problem was taken from a game played in a Russian tournament in 1936. Dr. D.F. Petrov played with White and won. From the diagram given it is White's move. Solution elsewhere in the BULLETIN BOARD.

PLANTING AND MAINTAINING A LAWN

A booklet written by Mr. E. J. Hunter of our Plant Maintenance Division, "Planting and Maintaining a Lawn," is now available free of charge at the Recreation Office, 3 Center Street, daily between 9 and 1.

BRIDGE NOTICE

A fine duplicate bridge game held last Thursday night was enjoyed by all. At the next game, which will be held on Thursday, August 20 (not the 13th as previously scheduled) one whole master point will be awarded to the winners if five tables compete. The game will begin at 8:00 p.m. and will be held in the Recreation Hall. Admission is $.75 per person. For further information, call either Joel Malament, Ext. 2936, or Sandy Wagner, Ext. 618.

The winners of the last game were:

1. The Schermers (by far) 68.3% Game
2. Wagner and Tillinger 59.5% Game
3. Cockrill and Tunney 50.8% Game

CHILDREN'S SUMMER PROGRAM

The crazy hat contest was a big success this past Friday for the on-site Children's Summer Program. Each child brought a bit of imagination from home in the form of the "craziest" hat he could dream up.

A parade was held to view the many different and colorful headpieces, and after a tough decision the judges announced the winners. In the girls' division, first place went to Diane Pasta who wore a live brown and white guinea pig among lettuce leaves and tomatoes. Second place was a tie between Ruhama and Elisheva Rigbi for their unusual entries. In the boys' division first place went to Keith Hebert for his "newspaper hat," and second place to Gordon Baker for his original headpiece.

Next week a treasure hunt will be held as Friday's special event. During the week there will also be numerous other contests and games.

SOLUTION TO CHESS

1. R-K7 check. Black cannot reply with K-B1 because
2. RxP mates on the move. If he tries KxN, White would play
2. PxP and threaten to queen either by advancing or by capturing the knight.
 1. . . . 1. KQ3
 2. PxP Threatening 2. NxN a clever play because if
 3. P-B8 (Queen) 3. N-K4 check followed by RxQ... However, White does not have to promote to a Queen.
 3. P-B8 (knight) 3. K-Q4 Check
 4. N-N6 Check 4. K-Q3
