Bera Film Series Presents: PEACE TO HIM WHO ENTERS

This warm and human film from the U.S.S.R. was severely blasted for its "pacifism" by the Russian Armed Forces journal, "Red Star". Unique in form and content, it is a story of the struggle to preserve new life in the midst of a terrible war. Fresh, striking, often impressionistic, "Peace to Him Who Enters" was a gold-medal winner at the 1961 Venice Film Festival.

The surprise hit of the festival ..... warmly humorous and human.....eschews propaganda —New York Times

Plus a short subject from the experimental film catalog:

L'OPERA MOUFFE

An astonishing, haunting film, dark and compellingly original. A poem to the gestures of the aged, the fervors of erotic love, the faces of the poor, the symbols of pregnancy and fertility under the guise of an impressionist exploration of a Paris neighborhood. A controversial film intended for an adult audience.

Thursday, December 9th at 8:30 p.m. in the Lecture Hall

Next Film Series Presentation: THE INSPECTOR GENERAL starring Danny Kaye Dec. 30th.

BNL AGAIN VISITED AS POSSIBLE SITE FOR 200-BeV ACCELERATOR

The National Academy of Sciences Site Evaluation Committee met at BNL last Sunday, December 5. This committee was organized last April at the request of the USAEC to study proposals for specific sites on which a planned 200-BeV accelerator could be constructed.

From the original proposals, 85 were selected for further study. AEC fact-finding teams are visiting sites all over the U.S. in connection with each of these proposals, and on November 23, a team spent the day at Brookhaven. The recent meeting of the NAS Committee here can be considered as another phase in the study of BNL's suitability for the proposed giant accelerator.

BROOKHAVEN LECTURE PLANT GENETIC TUMORS

How does an individual develop its component parts? How do cells of the same genotype evolve into specialized structures with different functions?

In the coming Brookhaven Lecture on December 15, Dr. Harold Smith of the Biology Department will discuss research done on tobacco plant tumors that is shedding light on the mechanisms of genetic activities in generations of cells. Dr. Smith's studies with tobacco plants which have a genetic tendency to form tumors have revealed the changes in cellular activities which distinguish normal, differentiated cells from cancerous, undifferentiated cells. By studying the genetic factors and conditions that cause tumors, scientists are given clues to the regulatory mechanisms that govern cell differentiation.

Slide presentations and a time-lapse film will highlight Dr. Smith's talk. The lecture will be given on December 15, 8:00 p.m. at the Brookhaven Center. A buffet supper ($3.00) will be served at the Center before the lecture, beginning at 6:00 p.m. Reservations should be made at least one day in advance by calling Ext. 2302 before 5:00 p.m. or Ext. 2453 in the evening.

SLO-BREAK BASKETBALL

by George Latham

The basketball season opened last Thursday night with six teams engaged in three games. Physics drew a bye. Once again the Old Timers appear to be the team to beat. In the opening contest, Les Lawrence tried to subdue the Old Timers for Applied Math, as he scored 17 points. The Old Timers, last year's champs, acquired Herm Haller in an off-season deal with the Dirty Sox and seem to have the league well in control this year. They won 45-26. Haller made 21 points with Walt Reams and Shelly Frei dunking nine points each.

In the second game, Biology displayed a good defense and a well-balanced offense to down Nuclear Engineering, 33-25. George Sabine, back after a year's lay-off, paced the Engineer's attack with eight points. Scott Garrett dropped in six points. Willard Koukkari lead the Biology club with ten points.

The third game saw the Dirty Sox top the Fire Department, 40-24. The Fire Department, this year's new team, displayed good height as they were down only 15-19 at the half, but Mike Carroll fouled out and the Dirty Sox pulled away in the second half. Mike Zguris led the Dirty Sox with fifteen points, while Horton scored eleven. Jim Hooper led the Fire Department with sixteen points.
