BNL's Retirement Plan

Vested Rights and Death Benefits

One of the most important features of the Brookhaven Retirement Plan is its immediate and complete vesting privileges. These privileges guarantee you total ownership of your retirement plan, including all contributions made by the Laboratory, regardless of how short a time you are in the plan. This contrasts with the vast majority of company plans which require that an employee must participate for a specified number of years before his vesting privilege includes the company contributions. Under these other plans, if the employee terminates employment early, he is returned his contributions but receives little, if any, of the employer's contributions.

Many retirement plans apply this limited vesting to death benefits, whereby if an employee dies prior to retirement, his widow recovers his contributions but seldom receives all of the employer's contributions.

At Brookhaven you own your retirement plan from the first day you begin participating. This allows you to retire at any age or to take the plan with you (including Laboratory contributions) if you leave Brookhaven for another job. In either case, the entire accumulation in your retirement fund, which could add up to many thousands of dollars, (see last week's issue of the Bulletin Board), is available to you in the form of a lifetime annuity income which commences whenever you desire.

If you decide to leave the Laboratory for other than retirement purposes, you have three major choices.

1. You may continue the plan by making your own contributions at the same rate or in reduced amounts if you so desire.

2. You may keep what you have intact, but discontinue further contributions. In this case, the amount in your name will continue to earn interest at the same rates as those of other TIAA-CREF participants.

When you decide to begin receiving annuity payments, TIAA-CREF will advise you of the income you will receive, which will be based on the contributions you and the Laboratory made up to the time you terminated your employment plus the interest earned since termination.

3. You may begin receiving an annuity income immediately. As far as TIAA-CREF is concerned there is no minimum retirement age. An employee may "retire" from Brookhaven and begin receiving annuity payments even though he accepts employment elsewhere. (The only time an employee may not do this is when he accepts employment at another institution which has a TIAA-CREF plan.)

Those who leave the Laboratory and have been in the plan less than 5 years have still another option. They may request a refund of their contributions plus any interest their contributions have earned. In this case, the Laboratory is refunded its contributions less any administrative expenses charged by TIAA-CREF for this procedure. This is an option which allows persons in this category to discontinue participation in this retirement plan, and should not be confused with the vesting privileges which are yours as long as you keep your retirement fund intact.

Your BNL retirement plan also features fully vested death benefits. This is virtually the same as having another life insurance policy. If you die prior to retirement, the entire accumulation will be paid to the beneficiary you have named. After notification of your death, TIAA-CREF will send to your beneficiary the choice of settlements together with the incomes available under each settlement. Your beneficiary may elect a single sum settlement or may choose to have the accumulation paid as an income for a specified number of years or for life. Other special arrangements can be made to suit the particular needs of your beneficiary. The method of settlement may be designated by you when you name your beneficiary, or the choice may be left to your beneficiary.

The death benefits after retirement are somewhat different, and will depend on the type of retirement option selected by you. These will be discussed next week.

If you have any questions on this or any part of your benefits program, send them to Q & A Bulletin Board, 40 Brookhaven Ave.

Physicist Receives Award

Dr. Cavid Erginsoy of the Physics Department has been awarded the Turkish Science Prize for 1967 for "contributions to solid-state physics, and, in particular to the interaction of radiation and energetic particles with crystals."

This is one of the two prizes given for basic sciences by the Turkish Scientific and Technical Research Council every year. It

Our Face is Red

The report in last week's Bulletin Board on The Special Hot Lab Services for the Coast Guard was incomplete in that it failed to report a most important part of the story.

No mention was made of the part played by Captains Edward Amos, Arnold Van Avery, and Frank Bugala of the Brookhaven Laboratory Police.

It was the Police Department who received the call from the Coast Guard for assistance, and it was the quick thinking and know-how of these three men that located John Tassinari and Ann Miller.

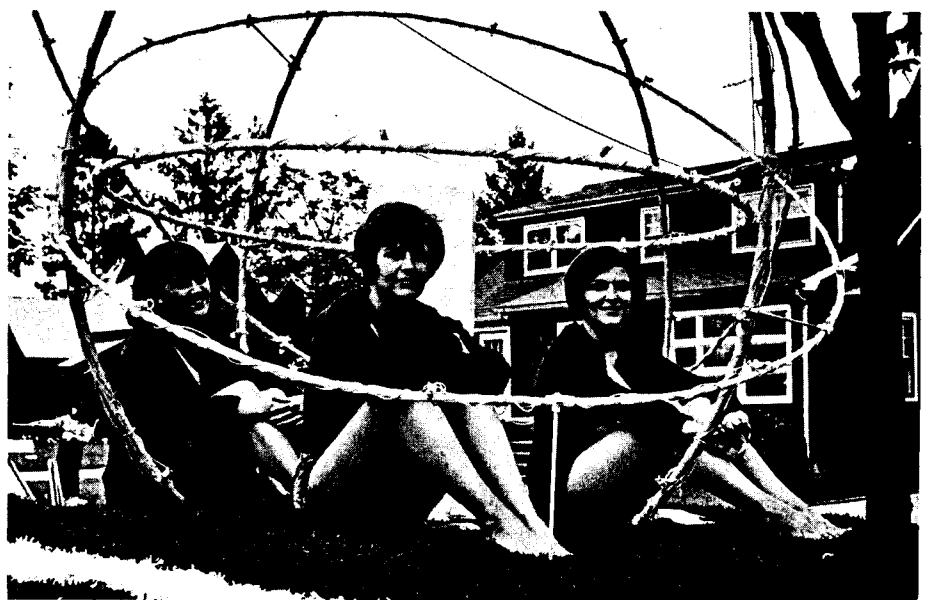

A "well done" to the Police Department is in order.

carries with it a gold medal, a certificate and a symbolic sum of money.

One of the reasons for Dr. Erginsoy's award was his contribution to the study of channeling of fast charged particles in single crystals. His work was theoretical but the first experiments in 1964 were carried out at the Brookhaven Van de Graaff, by Harvey Wegner of BNL, Walter Gibson and William Appleton of Bell Labs, with Dr. Erginsoy "looking over their shoulders."

Dr. Erginsoy will receive his award in Ankara, Turkey, during the First Science Congress, October 4-6, 1967.

During the next academic year (September 1967 - July 1968), Dr. Erginsoy will be on leave of absence from the Laboratory at the Middle East Technical University in Ankara as Professor of Physics.

BNL's Miss Electron, Miss Proton, and Miss Neutron, before the parade went critical and they started a chain reaction in the thousands of parade viewers.

BNL Float Turns Parade Crowd "On"

It took 175 years for Riverhead to have last Saturday's parade, and it took only about one second for the tens of thousands of parade watchers to decide that BNL's float was the hit of the day. To say it caused a sensation along the parade route is putting it mildly.

The same reaction was noted in the reviewing stand. The wave of noise and enthusiasm that accompanied the BNL float reached ahead of it to the reviewing stand and the Channel 8 cameras across the street. One of the Congressmen in the stand stood up, looked and was overheard to say, "Ya-hoo! It's alive!"

And alive it was - the BNL float - complete with blinking lights on simulated atomic rings - a silver replica of the HFBR, complete with our landmark, the red and white stack - lively music - and last, but far, far from the least, three lovely young ladies, Miss Electron, Miss Proton and Miss Neutron, wearing wide, wide smiles and wonderfully-well fitted bathing suits.

BNL's three lovely girls were inside the electron rings and all along the parade route they threw ping-pong balls to the crowd. Each ping-pong ball had the words "BNL Atoms for Peace" on it, and every one was highly sought after by youngsters and oldsters alike among the crowd.

On each side of the float were the words "Brookhaven National Laboratory - Splitting the Atom for Peace," constructed of thousands of 4-inch square pieces of blue and white crepe paper. The rear of the float had the words "Congratulations Riverhead" constructed in the same manner.

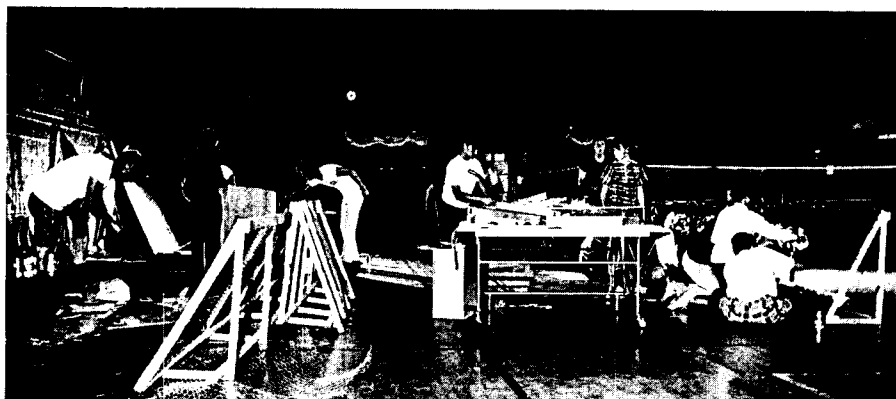

The crowd loved it - and didn't try to contain themselves. They swamped the float more than once. Some of the committee had to leave their car and ward off some of the younger fans. The crowd whistled, applauded and tried their darndest to catch a ping-pong ball.

Come on, fellas - look at the youngsters. They crowded the float on both sides for the entire length of the parade.

Sorry, but this corner of the gym is reserved for another kind of exercise, and the final figures proved that everything shaped up very well indeed.

To these Summer Students, and all the others who helped, the Laboratory extends its warmest thanks and heartiest congratulations for a terrific float.

Many hands were needed to put thousands of 4-inch squares of blue and white crepe paper into the wood and chicken wire frame.

Paul Kelly of Plant Maintenance, who gave generously with time and counsel, puts finishing touches on electron rings.

The sign tells it all - we can only add our thanks.

A few nights before our HFBR model got stacked.

"This float is creating some excitement with the crowd here," the TV announcer narrated. "And those girls are doing a wonderful thing for two-piece bathing suits," his distaff counterpart intoned. "This float has the crowd electrified." "It's a model of a high flux beam reactor, you know!" Yea, yea!

From start to finish, the HFBR, the pretty girls and the brightly colored atomic rings played to a winning crowd.

The BNL float, constructed at night by a group of Lab Summer Students, didn't win an award that day. But don't tell the crowd that - they know better. Ask the man who's been there and odds-on-favorite he'll say it was the BNL Contingent that put the "swingtime" into Riverhead's Anniversary Waltz.

Credit for the float concept, initial design and construction goes to the students, who for several weeks prior to the parade, spent many long hours every evening working. A special kind of thanks goes to Paul Kelly of Plant Maintenance who gave generously of his time and counsel. For the red Fairlane convertible, our thanks to Paul Lindsay (BNL Mobil) and Lyons Auto Leasing of Riverhead.

But the special thanks go to the students, who performed above and beyond the call of duty. We hope they had a good time doing it, because they certainly came through with an outstanding community relations effort.

The students are: Marc and Mike Rose, Ohio State, co-chairmen. Bob Zielinski, Rutgers, whose design was selected. Victor Lam, U. of Pennsylvania Medical School; Diana Beck, C. W. Post, Miss Electron; Chris Dyckman, Vassar, Miss Neutron; Sue Schweickert, Middlebury, Miss Proton; Bill Koch, Lafayette; Bob Pederson, State University of N. Y. at Stony Brook; Carrie Hunter, Tougaloo College; Rosilyn Ryals, Xavier; Nancy Land, Queens College; Steve Rosen, Cornell; Michael Callan, Cooper Union; Sheldon Stone, Rochester; Peter Yarnell, U. of California, Berkeley; Claire Wilcox, Connecticut College; Gene Deginkoll, Providence College; Nancy Beyer, Wellesly; Omur Akyuz, Worcester Tech; Marc Caroff, Cooper Union; Mike Gregory, MIT; Jim Clemens, Brooklyn Poly; Richard Chang, Columbia; Willie O. ## Short Wave Listeners

The Brookhaven National Laboratory Amateur Radio Club invites any person connected with the Lab and interested in "Short Wave Listening" (abbreviated SWL) to apply for membership.

For those who don't know the terminology, "a SWL is a person who is not a licensed amateur radio operator but who does enjoy listening to amateur broadcasts, and foreign broadcasts."

For further information pertaining to SWL, contact Kurt Lengweller, 20 Pennsylvania Ave., Ext. 7674.

Football Notes

by Jack Brennan

Have you ever watched Earl Morrall overthrow Homer Jones and said to yourself "I can do better than that"? Now is your chance! BNL Touch Football League begins Thursday, August 31. Roster applications can be picked up at the Recreation Office; minimum roster seven men, maximum roster twelve men. Deadline on the rosters is 1:00 p.m., August 25. Entry fee will be $25 per team. If you are not on a roster and want to play, put your name in the player pool. We will have two referees to a game this year, BERA picking up one Ref's fee, the League the other. So, put away that six pack, climb out of your TV chair, and start doing wind sprints to be ready for opening day, August 31.

Track and Field Day A Big Success

On Thursday, August 3rd, sixty children of the BERA morning recreation program participated in the annual track and field day.

Mareva Daniels was the outstanding female athlete with Nur Akcasu following close behind. The boys were led by William Sabine, Mike Daniels, and Sam Baymen. All first, second, and third place participants were awarded ribbons for their fine efforts.

Morning Recreation Program Ends With a Family Get-Together

On Wednesday evening, August 16th, the morning recreation program ended with a family buffet supper. Each family who had children participating in the program prepared a special dish which was shared by all.

An awards assembly was held at which trophies were distributed. In the Senior division, Best Participant trophies were awarded to Mareva and Mike Daniels. In the Junior division, the Best Participant trophies went to Carol Tidwell and Danny Edelstein.

As a special attraction, Bow Wow, the Clown, performed for the children. The crowd numbered about one hundred and a good time was had by all.

Distaff Softball

Shakespeare could have done a lot with last Tuesday's game. It was a true "Comedy of Errors" with a final score of 9-3.

There were, however, a few fine plays. Nancy Beyer (Biology) caught a line drive on third, and then went on to execute a double play. In left field, Ginny Diebel (Physics) splendidly caught two outs. Arden Neber (Director's Office) had a nice base hit.

The losing team blamed the humid weather for their failure, and they are hoping that next week a "Midsummer Night's Dream" (of winning) comes true.

BERA Film Series

Thurs., Aug. 24 - 8 p.m. - Lecture Hall

The Trial

Written, produced and directed by Orson Welles. Starring Anthony Perkins, Jeanne Moreau, Romy Schneider. A master's film from one of the great novels of our age, Welles' screen adaptation of Kafka's story tells of a commonplace young man, Joseph K., charged with a nameless crime by unidentified accusers, who, in trying to disentangle reality from the nightmare engulfing him, becomes a symbol of modern man searching for a way out of his predicament. The film is an attempt to create a nightmare world, vaguely European in decor with a melange of 19th century monumentalism with some 20th century counterpoints; gradually one realizes that this is a landscape of a totalitarian nightmare, a world of sudden violence, avid sexuality, and inexplicable happenings generally.

Movie Tonight:

Nothing but a Man and City of James Joyce.

Fish Tales

by John Tagliavia

For all those interested in the basics of striped bass angling, Artie H. Beckwith, junior version to the rather large one that heads up inspection, is running a class for beginners. The first lesson begins by unwrapping an attractively decorated box that is usually placed on the novice's desk. This being completed, said novice approaches the master, eyes bulging and thoroughly confused, sputtering something like "what is this for," referring to the head of an outsized striped bass that he holds gingerly in his hands. In almost every case Professor Beckwith simply replies, "that's the end you put the hook in." Hank Thorwarth can fill you in on the details; he recently graduated "magna cum laude."

Kenny (White Water) Thomson had a fair day with the bluefish aboard his 17 foot skiff outside of Moriches Inlet last week. In spite of being severely handicapped by the presence of Captain Cooch, they both totaled five blues, two of which were in the 12 lb class. As if that weren't excitement enough, they decided to return through the Inlet as the tide turned into a moderate north wind. That ride was enough to leave even Captain Cooch speechless.

The bluefish action that started again last week has been nothing short of fantastic. The scene of the slaughter stretched from Mt. Misery to Wading River. Jigged "Scotty Rigs" and trolled surgical tubes were the murder weapons. The striped bass however remain almost exclusively the prize of only the more knowledgeable angler.

Around the Base Pads

by Bob Carciello

The Blue Jays, Batmen, and Old Timers have done it again! These three teams managed to tie with 6-2 marks for first place in the second half. The same teams tied in the first half and placed a round robin to determine a winner. The Blue Jays took the first half and will be looking to wrap up the second half to avoid any further play-offs. The Old Timers posted their 6th win by crushing the Six Packs, 23-11. The Batmen downed Medical, 7-1 to move into the tie, and the Blue Jays defeated Metallurgy, 11-5 to stay in the thick of the Brookhaven League race.

The Dirty Sox wrapped up the second half by squeaking by the Bubble Boys, 6-5. By winning both halves, the Sox are the new National League champions. It is interesting to note that in approximately 14 years of participation in all of BNL's sports, the Dirty Sox have never won a championship. "Always the bridesmaid and never the bride" could easily describe the many years of the Sox efforts. The Phoubars had a much stronger second half as they took over second place by lacing the Make-Ups, 14-5. The Deadwoods got out of the dark damp cellar by splitting a double header with the Floorwalkers, 11-9 and 3-7.

The Mets upset the chances of the Potosareebies sweeping both halves in a thriller on a mud-laden ball field. Sparked by a three run homer hit by Harold Avent, the Mets went on to win, 10-7 and move into first place of the second half. In the only other Laboratory league action, the Converts broke into the winning column by bombing Biology, 14-5
