BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Theodore (Ted) Sampieri

ESOL Program Coordinator, Theodore Sampieri, has been a New York State Certified Public School Teacher for over a decade, teaching in several educational school districts both on Long Island, New York City, and for the Department of Defense.

He has taught English as a Second Language (beginner, intermediate, and advanced) in Adult Education programs on Long Island for the last several years. In addition to teaching, he was also a certified BEST PLUS administrator for the New York State Education Department. Furthermore, he has also taught United States History & Government, World History, Criminal Justice, and Social Studies related courses.

Theodore holds both a B.A. and a M.A. degree and brings to Brookhaven National Laboratory not only his enthusiasm and passion for teaching, but his diverse background and experience. He has been assisting and working with multi-cultural students and their families from around the world for over thirteen years.

Theodore is seeking to expand the current ESOL program at BNL by initiating new formats of assessment, implementing innovative instructional methods, and by creating positive student interaction, geared toward specific goal settings for each student in the program.
